BLACK CREEK WATER FLOWING AT LAST!

BLACK CREEK WATER MAKES IT TO THE OUTFALL AT ALLIGATOR CREEK

On December 9, 2025 a very brief break in the drought (see rainfall data page 3) that has gripped the northern portion of the St Johns River Water Management District for many months provided enough rain in one day to flash and elevate Black Creek allowing all 4 pumps on at the Inlet Facility.

The photo of the outlet structure is a preview of what operations will look like when normal rainfall returns to our area and the system operates at full capacity. The very good news is that the system is now operational when water is available for pumping. Pray for rain!!

LAKE GENEVA RESTORATION UPDATE: The Bid process for tree removal and clearing continues and will close on January 8th as several of the interested contractors requested an extension to better prepare their Bid submissions. The Mandatory Pre-Bid meeting at KH City Hall on December 4th was well attended with 11 Contractors present. They also visited the potential access points around the lake important for this Environmental Resource Permit execution. We are hopeful that the County receives many competitive submissions that fit within the allocated budget so the project can proceed.

Bids will be opened on January 9th then reviewed by County Staff. The potential winning Bid will go before the Board of County Commissioners for approval at their January 27, 2026 meeting. Once approved, a contract will be executed with the winning bidder to begin restoration operations on Lake Geneva State Sovereign land below the 102.9 Ft. elevation.
